COLONIAL THEATRE.

"The Apartment House Mystery," Immense Kalem Detective Feature.

In this drama of intensity and mystery, Ruth Roland appears as the girl detective, having been recently appointed to the force for her clever work in rounding up a gang of counterfeiters. This time she is called to solve the mystery surrounding the death of a man found upon the roof of an apartment house. Through a plece of a garment showing a button, she finds a client through a button, she finds a client through a button. piece of a garment showing a but-ton, she finds a clue that finally leads to the capture of a man who is accused of the crime. It turns out, however, that the captured man keeps a gambling joint, and the dead man was an habitue, also a drug field. While in the joint he was attacked by heart fallure and graphing at the problem. Willow grass, chickweed, red heart failure and grasping at the proheart failure and grasping at the pro-prietor for support, tore off the sec-tion of the garment found. The pro-prietor in fear of being accused of the crime, carried the body to the roof where it was found, but all this is brought about by the clever detective work of Ruth, whose spirited person-ality pervades every one of the strong

POETRY

THE WHITE ROAD AND THE SKY, Beyond the East the sunrise, beyond the West the sea,
And East and West the wander-thirst that will not let me be;
It works in me like madness, dear, to bid me say goodby;
For the seas call and the stars call, and ohi the call of the sky!

Yonder the long horizon lies, and there by night and day
The old ships draw to home again, the young ships sail away;
And come I may but go I must, and if
men ask you why,
You may put the blame on the stars and the sun and the White Road and the sky!

—Gerald Gould.

A RHYME OF EYES.

To smile—to weep—to woo, And close, like any blossom, When all life's work is through!

Brown eyes for autumn,
When on the fallen flowers,
And unresisting grasses
The leaves descend in showers;
Not somber eyes but sober,
Reflecting love that's true,
Blind to life's beauty only
When all life's work is through!

Grey eyes are for winter, The silence and the snow;—
When winds are keen and cruel,
And clouds are dull and low.
They see the rifled branches,
The frost upon the lane,
And corrow for a summer And sorrow for a summer

I know not where the White Road runs, nor what the blue hills are.
But a man can have the sun for a friend, and for his guide a star; And there's no end of voyaging when once the voice is heard.
For the river calls, and the Road calls, and oh! the call of a bird!
